PREFACE

By an Act of the Legislature in December 1833, Carroll County was established and named for Charles G. Carroll, of Maryland, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, who said, after giving his signature, "If this be treason, I want it known which Carroll it is, I am Charles G. Carroll of Carrollton, Maryland."

On March 11, 1834, the commissioners who had been chosen to organize the county held their first meeting. The Board of Police was composed of Edmond G. Whitehead, Daniel McEachern, Thomas Matthews, Woodward Applewhite, and John Rogers. Mr. Whitehead was chosen President.

On April 28, 1873 at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors, and by a Special Act of the Legislature, Carroll County was divided into two districts. Carrollton being the county seat of District I and Vaiden the county seat of District II.
